|| Sunesys Completes Connection to Newest DBSi Facility ||

February 13, 2012 (Warrington, PA) – Sunesys, LLC announced today that they have recently completed their connection to DBSi’s TekPark Data Center Facility.

“We are very excited to add the TekPark to our network. The TekPark provides a nice alternative for customers looking for facilities a little outside of the major metro areas.” said Alan Katz, Sr. VP of Business Development for Sunesys.

DBSi’s TekPark Facility is a “green-initiative” data center site located in Breinigsville, PA. The facility offers cabinet, caged, and data center suites with the latest technologies in security, power and cooling all supported by DBSi’s SOC2, SOC3, PCI, HIPAA, and GLB certifications. DBSi’s Chief Operating Officer, Bob Hicks, on the connection; “We are very pleased with the interest in our newest facility. With the completion of the Sunesys diverse pathway, DBSi TekPark continues to prove a successful asset for connectivity. We welcomed this expansion of the Sunesys relationship and look forward to continuing our partnership with Sunesys in the future.”

The geographically diverse pair of connections extends Sunesys’ extensive footprint of over 3,000 miles in Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware into the Lehigh Valley.
