|| Telecommunications and Dark Fiber Company Sunesys Announces Company Rebrand ||

March 21, 2011 (Warrington, PA) – Sunesys, a telecommunications services and dark fiber provider in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, California, Illinois, Georgia, Florida, Maryland, Delaware and Ohio announces the official launch of the company’s rebrand, which includes a new corporate identity, new logo and redesigned website (www.sunesys.com). The new look and redesigned site are intended to express the Sunesys personality and service offerings, while at the same time improving the accessibility of information about both the company and their services.

“We knew it was time to revisit the image we put forth in the marketplace,” said Alan Katz, Senior Vice President of Business Development. “Not to mention that Sunesys serves several key audiences with interests and concerns that are unique to their industries. Our new brand – and our new website – is not only a visual upgrade, but a change that makes it easier for these audiences to connect the benefits of our services with their needs.”

Sunesys now boasts a contemporary look and feel and a website with improved user experience and features and functionality that include:

- Videos about Sunesys’ services and client testimonials
- Industry specific white papers, case studies and content
- An interactive map outlining the Sunesys footprint and areas for future growth

“Over the years, we’ve become partners in our client’s success. Our new image – and our new website – helps us showcase the relationships and the value that Sunesys brings to their unique challenges,” said Katz.
